

North Cal Wood Products Launches YouClickItWeShipIt.com; Company Aims To Become World's First Full-Service, Online Lumber Store

UKIAH, CA, June 7, 2012 -- North Cal Wood Products (North Cal), the premiere reclaimed woods company, is pleased to announce that the company has launched its new online lumber store (YouClickItWeShipIt.com). The launch comes as the company prepares to roll out a national marketing campaign to inform and educate consumers on the advantages to shopping online for its lumber products.

Frank VanVranken, director of sales and operations, said the 18-employee firm decided to beef up its online offering in order to serve its nationwide and worldwide clients in the most seamless manner possible. To support the effort, North Cal Wood is establishing several large distribution centers across the country. "It's an online world and we have to be able to serve customers on their terms," said Frank "In many cases that means being able to provide full service online."

YouClickItWeShipIt.com allows homeowners, contractors, and other clients to browse through their wood options online, select their preferences, place their orders, and have their selections shipped directly to them – all without having to pick up the phone or send a fax.

"The idea is for the independent contractor that's out in Wisconsin on the jobsite, trying to find studs, framing, siding, or flooring to get online on his laptop or smart phone, check out our inventory, read a product review, and place an order," said Frank. "With just a few clicks he can get it shipped directly to the jobsite."

Looking ahead, Frank anticipates a time when a good portion of North Cal Wood Products' customers fire up their computers and place orders online. "The online store isn't a big business right now, but it's growing and customers are responding very favorably to it," Frank said. "We expect the business to grow further this year as we roll out our You Click It We Ship It Campaign."
